Sustainable business and investment on the road to net zero

Introduction

The inaugural International Business, Environment and Climate Conference (IBECC) will be held in Cairns, Far North Queensland.

IBECC will provide a valuable forum for discussion on the most profound issues and challenges facing businesses and investors.

Topics include:

- Establishing today's "baseline" from which sustainability efforts and an energy transition can take place;
- Forecasting the impact of climate change on business and investment;
- Corporate accountability and long-term net zero commitments;
- The journey to enterprise sustainability – Innovative business models;
- Beyond "greenwashing" real change for businesses and communities;
- Energy transitions and changing energy demand;
- Global biodiversity measurement and reporting for the business sector.

Who will attend?

It is anticipated that over three hundred delegates will register to physically attend the conference in Cairns, with additional delegates participating virtually, including:

- Public and private company Chairs and Directors, CEOs, CFOs, Heads of Strategy/Sustainability;
- Investment managers, Institutional investors (Superfunds);
- Financiers, accounting and legal professionals;
- Senior professional advisors;
- Government officials and regulators;
- Academic leaders and researchers

Opportunities and engagement

IBECC provides an excellent opportunity for organisations to demonstrate their leadership in corporate environmental responsibility and for suppliers of related services to reach major consumers. Attractive sponsorship and exhibition opportunities are available and speaker submissions invited. Physical and virtual delegate registrations options are available.
