Monthly overview

The monthly and annual growth has been due to more passengers on each flight and larger aircraft being flown to Cairns. This trend is evident on both domestic and international flights.

In October, airlines filling more seats on each flight resulted in a 2% load factor increase to 80%.

The trend of larger aircraft being flown is most evident in the annual figures. This shows that although there was a 1% reduction in flights, available seats increased 2%. This seat growth is due to more international flights using wide-body aircraft which have offset domestic network changes.

One domestic growth market has been Weipa. Over the past 12 months, seats increased by 47,700 to 182,500. Weipa's growth underlies Cairns importance as an Australian FIFO hub. Just over 10% of Cairns capacity (705,000 seats) were on FIFO charters or to destinations with high rates of FIFO travel.
